Obituary

Sylvia was born on March 30, 1990 at St. Joseph's Hospital in Stockton, California. She was the second of three daughters born to Dennis and Char Baker. The oldest is Lizabeth and Vivian is the youngest. She grew up living next to both her father's parents, Bryan and Annette Baker, and grandparents, Richard and Margaret Fleming.

Sylvia started school at St. Gertrude's Catholic School. She moved to a public school closer to home in the second grade, where she remained until her fifth grade year. She spent the second half of her fifth grade and sixth grade at another public school. Oakbrooke Private School welcomed her into their ranks for the seventh and eighth grades. She really flourished under their tutelage and love, ending the eighth grade as Valedictorian. She joined her older sister at Linden High School in the ninth grade. At first she only had a few friends that had been with her in the elementary grades, but that changed as the year progressed. Sylvia was looking forward to starting her sophomore year in August and a second year in her favorite class, woodshop.

There wasn't much in this world that Sylvia didn't find to love. She planned to get a culinary arts degree and open a bed and breakfast. Sylvia loved music, reading, playing games, cooking, and spending time with her friends and family. Anyone who was blessed with knowing Sylvia knew that she always had a smile and kind words. She was one of God's angels on earth. Sylvia died while mountain biking with her family on June 20, 2005. She will be greatly missed and forever loved.
